I am a listener of XM Satellite radio and appreciate the great job that this company is doing to provide me with not just National and International news but a better job than I have available from local broadcasting media. I would find it hard to believe that an organization like the NAB would not accept the challenge to improve themselves rather than try to stifel or eliminate the competition put forth by the satallite broadcastors. Please support our right to use the technology that is now available and that does such a wonderful job.

Sincerly,

James Stroup
